You wanted CHOPPERS IN DC for the 6th? Well here we come & Hell is coming with us,NO EXCUSES BE THERE - 35 Veterans from our Veterans Chopper Club, riding a 2000+ Mile round trip ,including Wounded Warriors On Custom Trikes who are missing Arms & Legs,Camp looks like a Pirate convention 🤔 (i.imgur.com)

18 ▼ More pics/story here -

Wet morning start Biker Clubs & Vet groups have been unreal let us crash at Club Houses & fed & watered us & will not take money. Had a band & open Bar until 1am last night.

Damp start

My own build except the paint & chrome, a custom Pan S&S built it in 2010 when I got back from Afghanistan & was going a bit stir crazy,rode it to my wedding,

It has been torn down 3 times so I could get the ride stance perfect for my 6'1 bod ,it is very comfortable & easy to do long cruises which is what I built it for.

It should have the custom Old School Sissy Bar & full pillion touring saddle on it ,but I lent it to my dopey older brother as he wanted to ride it in Texas (I live in Montana) & as riding down was a last minute decision instead of driving,he could not find where he put the touring seat.I am sure one of us is adopted 🤔 .

I am just doing a round trip from Dallas to DC & back,probably q bit over 2200 miles by the time I have finished visiting friends & family on the ride back,some of the guys have come from Commiefornia .

You may not love how we smell at the end of a 2000 Mile ride,my wife banishes me from the ensuite to the family bath tub after long rides ,for the after ride scrub down .I keep telling her we smell like a rose compared to how we smelt in the COP's in Afghanistan 🤔

Nice bike! My ex husband and I had an American Ironhorse Texas Chopper like this. It was fun to ride down to Myrtle Beach for bike week.

When we split up I missed the bike riding more than I missed him.

There is one of the original AITC's on the ride ,with your sense of humor you should get your own bike, you would fit in with any club & have a ball.

We have a couple of great fun Veteran woman on this ride,a couple rode with our group from Texas & the reason I did not do the wiring myself when I built my chopper, was the best Auto Electrician I ever had was a woman from our Moto X club who came with us on our ride through Brazil,we run a Cattle Ranch & she did all the work on our machinery & my dive boats as well ,best Auto Electrician I have ever dealt with & a great rider both on the road & off.

There is the AITC in the background of this pic .sorry for crappy pics it is like herding cats getting everyone organised, so we can keep the pack together on the road.

For a long time I considered getting my endorsement so I could ride myself but I really just enjoyed riding on the back. There's nothing like that feeling of freedom when riding a bike though. I miss it but I'm not in a position to get one myself now.

Pics were fine. Hope you guys have a good ride up to DC and safe travels! Give Pantifa and BLM hell!

▼ What is the model for the last pic??

I've always wanted to ride, but all of the bikes I've seen / been around are just too big. But your photos definitely encourage me to keep looking!

10 Glad I brought my wet weather gear, I am from Montana so use to the cold & how to layer for it & what I do to cut down the wind is the Old School trick of placing my bedroll on the Front Forks it then acts as a fairing to deflect the wind when riding.

Our main focus is looking after the Wounded Warriors , we have now done a 1000 miles quickly ,so there is no rush now we have all met up safely, so it will just be a relaxing fun cruise into DC now with plenty of stops along the way.

2 It's not bad if you have the right gear. Leather is very warm and is excellent for blocking wind and chill.

4 DOH "What we've got here is failure to communicate." 🤔 🤔

Never mind that front fork roll has my HD Tyre Lever in it known as the "Persuader " always handy to get you out of trouble on the road. 🤔

1 Yeh I am born & bred from Montana High Country so have the cold covered,we ride & work our ranch in snow every year & I spend part of the year guiding Horse Back Elk hunts into the snow covered Mountains every year ,gusty wind is the thing that pisses me off more than anything .

1 This is a nice looking Trike a Vet with only 1 foot rides ,built on a old WLA with the Suicide Clutch/Jockey shifter to suit him.I really like the looks & the rear twin seat can be taken on /off & the tray used to carry his dogs/supplies.

Yeh, I lived in DC on assignment to DOD in my final months in the Military ,the fucking pot holes are a disgrace & the only reason I agreed to ride down is they have arranged secure off street parking for the bikes.

I'm at the point where I don't even ride inside the Beltway anymore, except Rolling Thunder, which is gone now. Not worth it.

Be advised there is still sand buildup from a snow event last week. Or was it week before?

Ride safe brother. Thanks for coming to town.
